THE LOMBARD INVESTMENT COMPANY SEEKS A HEAVY JUDGMENT.

Defendant Company Claims It Is Not Responsible for the Shortages Because They Were Not Discovered Within the Stipulated Times

Before Judge Philips yesterday afternoon the case of the Lombard Investment Company against the American Stray Com-

Discloton was reserved.

The case grows out of the detailenties of Henry W. Les Europell, the amounting cashier and auditor of the Lembard com-

Be Void.

In the decision handed down by Judge John F. Philips in the federal court yesterday in the ease of William E. Prickett against the city of Marveline, there was decided a point of law touching the issuance of municipal bonds that is of great interest to all the cities in the state.

The facts as shown in the case were. In the spring of 1898 the city of Marvellne, a city of the fourth class, decided at the election to issue bonds amounting to $6,500, for the purpose of constructing an electric light plant for the city. The bonds were issued and bore the date of July 2 of that year. The interest compone were promptly met for a comple of years, when hard those struck the village, and then it was discovered at technicality existed and payment of the other coupons was refused. CRIMINAL WITH A RECORD. Term in the Penitentury.

Term in the Penitentiary.

A criminal of some note made his reappearance in the criminal court yesterday in the person of William Wilson, alias Hillightton, who was up for trial on the charge of robbing Hortense Calamese of a small sum of money and her carrings. The evidence showed that Wilson limeshed the woman down on the street and committed the crime, and the jury sent him to the pen for five years. Wilson was only released from the pen last May after serving a three years, term for killing a fellow prisoner in the county fall by afriking him on the head with an emity hop bottle. The murdered prisoner was Wilson's sell mate and the deed was done when the two got into a quarrel over some trivial matter. Wilson is a desperate looking huractor. The cases of Thomas Phelan and Clay Creinshaw, who engaged in an alternation in a saloon on West Fighth street some time saloce, which led to tre bartender in Hurkett's saloon, on Wysteduts street, shooting at Creinhaw, was set for trial on Jenuary 23. January 23

The grand form is still engaged on jail cases, but will clean them up in a day or two and will then take up some matters of importance, including election fraud.

MRS. WINKLEMAN SMILED.

She Takes Oath That She Has No Intention of Killing Her Husband.

Mrs. Amanda Winkleman smiled yesterday afternoon as she lifted her right hand and swore before Tephty Dave McClanahans at the court house to an answer and crossbill, in which she slated that she did not carry concented about her person a revolver with which to shoot and kill her husband. Rudolph Winkleman. She also made affidix it that she was not guilty of other unsavery conduct unbecoming a model housewife in the cycle of the law to such an extent as to make his life with her intolerable.

Mrs. Winkleman, who was accompanied by a young gentleman who said he was connected with a law office, went up to division No. 4 and hied before Special Judge Morrow application for alimony and attorneys' fees in the sum of $500. She

The document set out that the steam roller purchased by the court at a cost of several thousand dollars was not being used by the county in road construction. The advisory committee thought this to be a grave error. The communication also set out that the former county court approved of a plan setting apart is per cent of the road fund for distribution among road districts remote form any thoroughters. It was claimed that the spirit of this recommendation made by the advisory committee was not being carried out. The advisory committee on roads suggested to the court that none but public spirited men be appointed road overseers, and after their appointment have a convention of road overseers for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and the formulation of a plan for road building which would be of general use to the the formulation of a plan for road build-ing which would be of general use to the public.
